

Ways for International Relations Professionals to Participate

We're asking diplomats, policy advisors and policymakers, program directors, and all international relations professionals to empower ethics by planning events, facilitating workshops, or publishing articles on or around October 16, 2024.

Continue reading to learn how you and your colleagues can get involved.

Ethics is about making the effort to evaluate competing points of view and then truly caring about the impact of the choices you have made. Ethics is not some cure-all for the world's problems, but it is an actual process for finding solutions."

— Joel Rosenthal, president of Carnegie Council

Ethics in International Relations

Event and Workshop Ideas for the 11th Annual Global Ethics Day

Event Ideas

- Ethics in Diplomacy: What are common ethical considerations in diplomatic negotiations and how can they be handled?
- Global Food Security Symposium: Organize a conference exploring solutions for improving equitable access to nutrition.

Workshop Ideas

- Improving Cultural Sensitivity in Humanitarian Aid: How can NGOs provide local support while respecting cultural traditions and knowledge?
- Exploring Fair Trade Standards: How can international organizations better support small producer organizations?

Resources for Global Ethics Day Planning

Download the 2024 Global Ethics Day Toolkit

Have questions? Get in touch.

Carnegie Council's 2023 Global Ethics Day Event | Unlocking Cooperation

At Carnegie Council, we believe that cooperation is an essential virtue in the pursuit of an ethical life. And yet, it seems that cooperation is often absent from public life today.

In this keynote event for Global Ethics Day 2023, Carnegie Council President Joel Rosenthal led a conversation with MIT's Erez Yoeli and Tufts University's Abiodun Williams on the psychology behind cooperation; ways that states, institutions, NGOs, and businesses can work together; and how we can all create the conditions for enhanced cooperation.

Watch the Event